

Students Register Monday

• MONDAY, MAY 5, during the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m., students will register for the first semester and fifteen-week term of the Summer Sessions, Dr. Burnice Jarman, registrar, announced.

New students will register June 2. Registration day for the Second Summer Session will be announced later. No classes will be held on May 5.

Students can procure necessary forms and directions for registration from the Office of the Registrar Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week.

To determine in advance how many students will be in each class, officials will follow the procedure used during the Winter Term and will register by departments.

Contrary to the announcement in the catalogue, the registration fee for the First Session will be $4.

For veterans the two sessions will be considered as two terms for computing subsistence. Two accelerated courses (six hours), or one accelerated course plus two 15 week courses will be figured full time, as will any other combination which makes a total of six hours within a semester.

A veteran taking nine accelerated hours for the first half of the Summer Session and three accelerated hours for the second half, will be paid full subsistence for the first half and half subsistence for the second session.

Assistant Dean William L. Turner of the Junior College announced that all program changes requiring financial adjustment must be made before June 2. Other changes may be made between June 2 and June 6.

Procedure is as follows:

- (1) Secure registration forms in the Registrar's Office, C-100, May 1, 2, and 3, Thursday through Saturday.
- (2) Fill in forms in Student Club, Basement of Building C, or any convenient place.
- (3) (a) Students who need advice as to courses see appropriate deans.
- (b) Students who know courses they will take go directly to several departments for approval.
- (4) Take forms as approved by departments to appropriate deans for final approval.
- (5) (a) Veterans go to H Street entrance of Gymnasium.
- (b) Non-veterans go to Cashier's Office, Gov. 1-2.

Statesman Speaks To Hatchet Today

By EDDIE SHAPIRO and RAY GLASSCOCK

• NEW YORK, APRIL 29 (Special) — At a meeting held at 3:00 p.m. today in the office of New Republic Magazine, Henry A. Wallace spoke to editors and staff members of 50 eastern college newspapers.

Six representatives from The Hatchet attended the conference, which was sponsored by the Columbia Daily Spectator, publication of Columbia University.

Wallace, who returned Sunday from a European tour which made him the hero of the British and the dire concern of the U. S. State Department, said, "Everywhere in Europe that I came into contact with students I found a determination to leave a better legacy to the next generation. The consuming passion among the young people is that World War III is preventable."

When asked about the formation of a third party, the former Vice-President said, "If the Democratic party cannot become liberal, then the next generation will probably demand the means for political expression." "I wonder how progressive the average college student is," he asked.

"The most effective way for the American youth to fight for peace is to get together with young persons of other nations and talk things over regardless of national barriers."

He remarked that the young people of England are more politically tolerant than those of the U. S., stating that they are the best organized youth in the world, being open to all sides of a political question.

"The young people have faith in the United Nations," he said, "probably more than those in America. The intent among students is peace at all costs."

"Every move the U. S. makes toward increasing military power causes other nations to do likewise," Mr. Wallace said. "This, of course, is a barrier to peace."

Student Council Submits Own Proposals, Investigation Findings to Publications Group

• ADDING ITS OWN recommendations to the Hatchet Investigation Committee findings, the Student Council took issue with two main points in the original report.

Following the second of two special meetings at which the Committee recommendations were discussed, the Council forwarded its proposals, along with the Committee report, to the Committee on Publications.

The Council also studied, and with minor changes approved, a revised organizational plan for The Hatchet, prepared by the editors on the basis of a board of four editors, including an editor-in-chief.

The Investigation Committee recommended an enlarged Publications Committee, with the addition of one student and one faculty member. The Council, however, favored adding one student member only, and stipulated that one of the faculty members be from the University Journalism department, and that that faculty member act as chairman of the committee.

The Council also advocated the use of its newly planned Committee of Review as a grievance machinery in all cases of student complaint, including those against The Hatchet. The Investigation Committee report had suggested that any grievance against The Hatchet be lodged with the Publications Committee.

Lit Club Discusses "King Lear" Tonight

• THE LITERARY CLUB will present a round-table discussion on Cue and Curtain's adaptation of "King Lear" tonight at 8:00 p. m. in Columbian House. The meeting is open to the public.

Gertrude Chapp, a graduate of the University, will act as moderator. Open discussion by the audience will be held. In addition to members of the club, participants on the board will include Judy Clark, Jane Summers, Jean Ferguson, and Joe Chuba.

Radio Organization Proposes Eastern Collegiate Network

• PLANS FOR A Network of all campus radio stations in the Washington area were formulated at a recent convention of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System in Philadelphia.

Included in the group of schools participating will be the American, Georgetown, Maryland, George Washington, and Virginia Universities, and Mary Washington College.

Under the proposed plan, the stations will be connected by telephone wires which will "pipe" the programs, made on one campus to each member of the network. Eventually, the System hopes to embrace all campus stations on the East Coast.

Fred Collins of Georgetown University, who is acting as organizing manager of the Capitol Network, said its first meeting will be held in Washington next Sunday.

Veterans Club Sponsors Discussion On Proposed Communist Party Ban

• THE UNIVERSITY Veterans Club will sponsor a round table discussion tomorrow night on the current issue now facing Congress and the public, "Should the Communist Party be Outlawed?"

The participants, Representative A. L. Miller, Republican from Nebraska and member of the House District Committee; Frank Waldrop, columnist for the Washington Times-Herald; Martin Popper, Ex-Secretary of the National Law yer's Guild; and a fourth yet to be announced, will discuss the issue as well as other measures which might be taken short of an actual ban. A member of the University faculty will act as moderator for the discussion and will preside over the audience participation period following.

Scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m., the forum will be broadcast over radio station WINX from 8:05 until 9:00 p. m.

Two Wins—Two Losses

• IT IS INTERESTING to compare the achievements of individuals who are faced with similar tasks. The class officers for this year is a brilliant case in point.

On the one hand, Freshman President Jim Speaks has manifested his capability by producing a clever and original variety show, the proceeds of which were contributed to the Hospital Equipment Fund Campaign. Important to consider is that, in doing so, Speaks brought forth the leadership abilities of scores of Freshmen.

The senior class president has made an effort to produce something of value, but has been stymied at every turn by lack of cooperation. The showing of class rings, setting of a date for the senior banquet, and other minor points have been his only achievements—through no fault of his own.

And what of the sophomore and junior leaders? The junior president has entered into some service projects, made some posters, and sold some tickets. The sophomore class president has confined himself to dreaming.

Two of the four class officers have achieved nothing worthy of mention. They have devoted the better part of the year to wearing their titles—an honor of which they are evidently not deserving.

The election of more Speaks and more Pughes is the answer. We hope that the voting average will pass the .500 mark next year.

Today—Or Any Day

• "THE PRESENT TIME is the critical period in our University life. We have broken from the old period of lethargy and are endeavoring to plant ourselves in the front rank of educational institutions. Under a new name and with awakened vigor, success seems to loom in sight."

The above is quoted from an editorial which appeared in the first issue of The Hatchet ever to be printed. The dateline is October 5, 1904.

Forty-three years have served to yellow the paper with age, and the appearance is indeed strange by comparison with today's streamlined tabloid.

Yet that editorial comment could very well have rolled off the presses last week; or next week. Perhaps we face another of a series of "critical periods." A more logical answer is that we continue in a "critical period," one which began with the plans for founding the University—one which will continue as long as a class in Freshman English is offered.

When the 1904 editor expressed his sentiments, there was no Building C; no Lisner Auditorium; no Hall of Government. There seems to have been little then that resembled the University as it appears today. Excepting, of course, the awareness that the present is critical. So long as that awareness survives, we shall continue to grow, until the dreams and hopes and plans for the future materialize.

Letter to the Editors

To The Editors:

That college students are regressing in order to escape their mature responsibility in current affairs is evident on all college campuses throughout the country, with the University a symbol of this apathy. After two world wars fed by the interests of isolation and economic greed, one would desire a turnabout to intelligent participation, particularly on the part of student veterans, in solving the problems that beset our world. Objective political education must be disseminated, and opinions crystallized, for time demands decisions.

To illustrate the complacency current in the University, one can cite the Current Affairs Club and the Student Federalists, organs properly designated for free discussion through forums, with much spirit, but without 100 members in a student body of 12,000. In addition, the University permits the discouragement of political groups, acorns of thought that could be nourished into oaks of democracy. Are we, who are interested in these political problems, who saw and fought political oppression, not mature enough to engage in political discussion?

In the Current Affairs Club and the Student Federalist group, interested students are realizing that present day problems affect their future security so much that the answers to, plans for, and opinions on these vital questions are as important as personal livelihood and education.

In the domestic sphere, bills and laws on labor, communism, and foreign policy are being formulated. These so fundamentally affect our immediate and future interests that it is imperative that we vote with justified assurance, based on facts, truth, and benefit to the people of this country and over the world.

Internationally, historical and current world problems, particularly in Europe and Asia, must be understood. Their difficulties and methods of solution must be analyzed and appreciated by American citizens, for we, as citizens and as college students, are the leaders of American thought. Russia should be our friend. We must strive towards this friendship, for if there be a war with Russia, the United States would be attacked first. This must never happen. The Russian problem, intellectually solvable, must not be evaded.

The question is not "How much time should we accord world responsibility?", but "How can we completely accept world responsibility?"

Said Alfred Einstein and the conference of atomic scientists; said President Roosevelt, and the world listened: The peace of the world rests with the peoples of the world. Only their intelligence, through free discussion and wholehearted concern with the political conflicts of these hours, can furnish the necessary peace.

Awakened public interest cannot be our prayer. It must be our immediate realization.

Have You Met...

Jim Cummings

• RETURNING TO THE campus last year, after four years in the Navy which took him from Pearl Harbor to Japan, level-headed, likeable Jim Cummings is now in his last semester as an undergraduate student of the University.

In the fall, Jim plans to enter the University Law School, where he will prepare for tax work. His legal course will not catch him completely unprepared, though, for among his previous job experiences was a period of title-searching for a Chicago firm.

An accounting major, Jim is now finishing his term of office as comptroller of the Student Council. Besides that and his membership in Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, he has been active in student affairs and belongs to the Society for the Advancement of Management and Alpha Kappa Psi, the professional business fraternity. In all, he has worked quietly and steadily for increased student activities and greater cooperation between-campus organizations.

Most of Jim's pre-war days were spent in Burlington, Iowa, and that's where he'll be heading after graduation. Although he is currently managing the University tennis team, Jim admits a personal preference for golf, and when he's not on the links this summer he'll probably be trap-shooting. Chief among Jim's other likes are duck-hunting and photography.

Forward Step

• THE SHOWING of "The 39 Steps" at Lisner Auditorium last Wednesday marked the second Student-Council-sponsored film for the student body. Several hundred students doled out fifteen cents to see the Alfred Hitchcock masterpiece of a decade ago.

This step is a significant one in that it marks a manifestation of the plans for an enlarged social program for the student body. Forum Director Bob Bialek, who arranged the program, and the Student Council receive our hearty congratulations, and the hope that this will become a regular series.

Students As Citizens

By ROBERT BIALEK

• THE PAST COUNCIL election has produced a rash of criticism against the Greeks. It is not solely their fault that there is a relative dearth of school spirit here. Nor can the blame for the comparative lack of intellectual stimulation in our campus activities be laid at their door alone. Too many independents get into the rut of criticizing the situation without at the same time trying to do something constructive. It's true—there are some archaic regulations in existence plus the prevalent spectre of administration control, real or imagined. But there are still many unexplored fields of endeavor. It is an unhealthy approach to remain forever on the outside criticizing when there are areas of activity open.

It is always possible to start new types of clubs or work on specialized projects. First, there should always be a live club for each major subject. There are some, though a few are in a state of suspended animation. If you are interested enough to study a subject, extra-curricular activities in that field should certainly appeal to you. This is perhaps the ripest field in which independents can work. If there is not an adequate club in your major why not start one, or re-activate the old one?

One of the crying needs of this University is a student cooperative. A book co-op could certainly be set up for the fall term. Later on it could expand and handle many staple items at a real saving for us. Many schools do this. It would cut down waiting in lines by providing a third book outlet and more important it can save us money which is the prime purpose of a co-op. This is certainly a project that some individuals and/or clubs can work on.

Let's look at the past year. There has been a tremendous increase in student activity. There has been an increase in the number of forums and meetings treating with national and international affairs. The Current Affairs Club got squared away, the Study Group for World Government was organized. A Literary Club was formed; the ill-fated Grind was published. A campus literary magazine has been established. A definite interest is being evidenced toward the National Student Organization. The Religious Council and some of its affiliate clubs have badly attacked the problems of race prejudice (even in its lair, Lisner Auditorium).

When the threat of expulsion was being bandied about, student opinion put the squeal on it. But nowhere has independent student expression made itself more keenly felt than in support of The Hatchet. The spontaneous demonstration and astute questioning of witnesses during the recent inquiry were the most impressive demonstration of student spirit in recent University history.

The point of all this is that there are places where one can put constructive activity here. There are certain limitations, it is true. But no administration can turn a deaf ear forever to an intelligent and active student body.

Review

• CUE AND CURTAIN obviously stepped into a major project when it tackled "King Lear." To attempt a tragedy that would tax the abilities of the top professional performers is indeed an ambitious undertaking.

The result, while far from a complete success, can not fairly be termed a failure. Although the crucial points in the drama lacked the sureness and fire that transform play-acting into life, many of the lesser scenes and the general treatment of the theme showed understanding and ability.

In his attempt to portray realistically the shifting of Lear's character from pride to humility and his mental decline to madness, Orel Leonard struggled with a part that seemed a little too big for him. In fairness, it should be pointed out, however, that his support in the climatic scenes was spotty, and that the shortening of the play, although skillfully done, only rendered more difficult the presentation of a dynamic characterization.

The sub-plot was generally well-handled, perhaps to the extent that it overshadowed Lear's story. Gloucester and his sons, played by Jay Clarke, Robert Cordell, and Gene Picciano, were equally well done and were responsible for the success of most of the scenes in which they appeared prominently.

Outstanding among the minor characters was Harold Borger's portrayal of the foppish steward, Oswald.

Despite unevenness in action and verisimilitude, and weak diction or faulty acoustics in spots, on the whole we consider the play well worth the efforts which went into its production. Certainly if the purpose of its presentation, as stated in the program notes, was to bring to the local stage a drama not often available to the public, then to Cue and Curtain must be awarded at least an A for effort. And certainly the total effect was one of definite value.

Acheson Announces Program For Foreign Service Review

• ADMISSION FORMS for the twelve week foreign service review course, which will be given by the School of Government for the second consecutive summer, may be obtained at the office of the Dean of the School of Government, 710 Twenty-first street, N. W., Professor Edward C. Acheson, director of the course announced.

The review course, the first offered by any university, is limited to 100 students. Applications may be made by anyone who has been designated by the President of the United States to take the State Department Foreign Service examinations.

Classes will begin June 22 and continue one week before the State Department examinations, to be held in September.

Dr. Acheson reported that 40 per cent of the students taking the review course last year passed the State Department examinations, as compared with 14.2 per cent of the total number of applicants.

He also mentioned that a number of the successful students are now employed in the Department of State, awaiting foreign assignments. In addition, over 80 per cent of the review course graduates who took State Department oral examinations last month passed them.

Applications for permission to take the foreign service examinations should be made to the Department of State.

Veterans Sponsor Moonlight Cruise

• AL GUERRA, of the Veterans Club, announced that tickets for an All-University moonlight cruise scheduled for Monday, June 9, will go on sale in Lisner Auditorium at the Veterans Club forum tomorrow evening, in the gymnasium at the May Day ceremonies next Friday, and in the cashier's office and the gymnasium during registration next Monday. Tickets are $1.15 per person, including tax.

The S. S. Potomac has been reserved for the three and one-half hour cruise.

New Club To Serve Scholars

• A GROUP OF scholarship students, headed by William Warner, University sophomore, met last Wednesday in Columbian House to draw up a constitution for a scholarship club.

Having received the approval of Dr. Burnice Jarman, registrar, and Dean W. Reed West, chairman of the University scholarship committee, the students passed on the proposed constitution except for a club name which will be chosen at the next meeting.

Dean Myron Koenig of the Junior College, in addressing the students, said that since the club has the cream of student brains, he expects that it will make a noteworthy contribution to campus activities. He cautioned, however, that the club should not exist merely for the sake of organization, but should also have a definite goal.

The constitution outlines to some extent the direction of that goal. It stipulates that the club is to effect a liaison between students and the administration; it will be non-sectarian, non-political, and non-sectional.

Officers will consist of a president, vice-president, secretary, corresponding secretary, and treasurer. The executive committee will include the club president, a faculty adviser, and the chairman of the standing committees.

Elections and plans for May Day tea to entertain high school seniors who have applied for University scholarships will be discussed tomorrow at 4:00 p. m. in Columbian House.

Two Students End Research On Leadership

• TWO GRADUATE students at the University announced yesterday the results of their survey of certain student leaders on this campus.

The purpose of the paper, written by Neil R. Lovelace and John Dean Frost, both working on their Masters Degree, is "to determine what extent physical, emotional, and mental factors have had in conditioning the degree of success, distinction, and recognition attained by certain outstanding students at the George Washington University."

Twelve students were selected at random from the group of twenty-four who represented the University in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," as the basis of the study.

University Students Win AAUW Prizes

• TWO UNIVERSITY STUDENTS were awarded prizes in the annual poetry contest of the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women last week.

Contest winners and their selections are as follows: University junior, Mary Alicia Calvo, "Voyage," second prize; University sophomore, Newton Miner, "Loneliness," third prize. First prize went to Alice Lyons, a senior at Trinity College.

Honorable mentions went to John MacNab of the University for "Let There Be Rain When I Go," to Mary Alicia Calvo for "Winter," and to William Kozisky for "Standing Room Only."

Started in 1933, the contest was held each year until 1942. This was the first contest after the war. During the past years the University has received four firsts, three thirds, and three honorable mentions for the contributions of its students.

Prizes presented to the winners at a dinner held in the national clubhouse of the association last Wednesday were: first prize, $25; second prize, $15; third prize, $10.

Represented in the contest were American University, Catholic University, Gallaudet College, Trinity College, Wilson Teachers College, University of Maryland, and George Washington University.

Investigation

Outlined in The Hatchet's organizational plan were the qualifications, duties, and responsibilities of each editor and member of the editorial and business staffs.

Provisions were also set up in The Hatchet plan for the rating of transfer students experienced in college journalism. Under this arrangement, after one semester's service on The Hatchet the student would be eligible for a position comparable to any he had previously held on another paper.

The Council agreed to the Investigation Committee's recommendation that The Hatchet should have an instructor in the journalism department to serve as a technical advisor. However, it favored monthly, rather than weekly, consultation inasmuch as The Hatchet will receive weekly critiques from the Associated College Press.

The Council also agreed with The Hatchet Editors that an attempt should be made to mail copies of the paper to all students.

USES Opens Office For Senior Students

• OFFERED AT THE University for the first time in its history, an on-campus United States Employment Service office which gives interviewing service to graduate students was opened last Wednesday in Room D of Columbian House.

The office, conducted by USES representative Thomas A.

Pope, is tentatively scheduled to operate at the University for a total of two weeks and is open daily from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Pope urges students to take advantage of the services offered by USES and says a multitude of benefits which few people know anything about are obtainable at the downtown offices.

The USES maintains a high standard of service, Pope continued. Under the placement program, jobs are continuously screened and the applicant meets the required standard, he is notified by telegram, letter, or telephone.

For interested students, Pope concluded, a publication called "Labor Market News of D. C." is available which gives the current labor indications of the District. On request the publication will be mailed to students by writing or appearing in person at USES office at 737 17th Street, N. W.

Veterans Must Request Leave Of Absence Pay

● "STUDENT VETERANS must request leave of absence from the Veterans Administration from May 28 to June 3 if they want to get paid for this period," Ben Tufts, Veterans Administration training officer, said.

Short checks will result if the veterans do not elect to request leave.

Undecided students, students who do not plan to register for the summer sessions, or students who are transferring to another school are required by the Veterans Administration to report to the University gym either April 30, from 5:00 to 9:00 p. m. or May 1, from 12:00 to 9:00 p. m. to complete Form 1908.

Students who register May 5 will file Form 1908 at that time.

"There will be an advantage to veterans attending summer school if they register on May 5. Their leave question which is a part of Form 1908 will have been answered, and they have a better chance of getting their next check without delay," Tufts stated.

Leave granted for in-between-semester in summer school is deducted from the veterans total length of entitlement.

In order to qualify for leave, the veteran must indicate his intentions of re-entering school either for the summer session or the fall term.

Leave accrues at the rate of 2 1/2 days per month of training, and cannot exceed a maximum of thirty days for one calendar year.

In the past, summer session gaps have automatically been covered and the time subtracted from the veteran's entitlement.

This year, the veteran will be given leave only if he is eligible and if he makes a written request for it.

May Day

Production Group II, Cue and Curtain, Mortar Board will end the program with the tapping of new members.

The scene of activity will then shift to the gym, where campus organizations will sponsor a carnival, with twenty-five booths offering various games of chance and skill.

There will also be dancing on Lisner Terrace from 9:00 p. m. to midnight.

During the afternoon preceding this program, visiting high school students will be introduced to campus life and will make a tour of the University.

In addition to choosing the May Queen, patients at Walter Reed will see a variety show which will be directed by Freshman President Jim Speaks and will feature acts by Betty King, Ann Pennigroth, Arch Harrison, and others.

Community Bank Asks For Blood

• ESTABLISHED in 1944 to supply blood for emergency transfusions, the Community Blood-Plasma Bank of Washington is today faced with a critical blood donor shortage.

Since the close of the war the Bank has been operating on a non-profit replacement basis with main headquarters at the University Medical School and its donor center at the Police and Fire Clinic on Thirteenth Street.

Under the Bank's replacement plan, all persons receiving transfusions must deposit a collateral fee of $25. The patient and a member of his family are then issued cards.

If the blood is replaced within 15 days the collateral fee is refunded. If only one replacement is made only $15 of the collateral is refunded. The Bank will accept any blood type for exchange.

Donors may give blood at any time by making appointments with the Blood Donor Center. A transferable card, which is good indefinitely, is issued each donor. These cards may be used in lieu of the collateral deposit or they may be returned to the Donor's Center for refund if a deposit has been made previously.

"Due to our inadequate supply the bank is unable to furnish the proper type blood for all emergencies," Dr. Roger M. Cholsner, President of the Blood Bank says.

"This is because too many patients prefer to forfeit the collateral rather than replace the blood."

Blood donors who desire to aid the Bank may make appointments by calling NATIONAL 6000, branch 645.

Colonials Face Virginia, Davidson

TAKE IT FROM ME

BY EDDIE SHAPIRO

• AN INTERESTING debate has been featured recently in Sport magazine on the subject of "Should College Athletes Be Paid For Their Efforts?"

Taking the negative side, Bill Stern, famous radio sports announcer, has sharply criticized the "pro" set-up, as he calls it. The phony jobs, spending money, and other inducements which most colleges use to lure athletes tend to professionalize amateur sports in Stern's opinion.

In rebuttal Harry Wismer, another sports announcer turned journalist, defends the payment of college athletes on the grounds that "the boy who gives his time to a major sport deserves scholarship aid just as much as the boy who shows promise in chemistry or civil engineering."

Says Wismer, "We must not allow our enthusiasm for cleaning up sports in general to lead us down a path which would block educational opportunities to young men of athletic ability whose only drawback is that they lack money . . . Colleges owe much to their athletes and it's time something was done to pay the young men for their efforts."

Certainly both Stern and Wismer have presented many excellent points which are indicative of the fact that they have studied the situation thoroughly and that they realize the respective positions of the schools and of the athletes.

There is one point, however, which could bear more emphasis and which always seems to be overlooked when this subject is under discussion.

The young man who attends college and participates in athletics spends most of his time at athletics. Let us take the case of a football player at an average university as an example.

Football players usually report to the training camp sometime in August. They work for hours at a time under a hot summer sun, getting into condition for the coming season. Any free time at the training camp is spent in studying new plays and learning assignments. Daily practice sessions must be attended, not only until the season opens, but throughout the entire season as well. Therefore the players must work steadily for approximately four months, keeping in top physical shape and continually risking serious injuries.

The end of the season doesn't mean the beginning of an easy life for the athlete at the school's expense, for he is expected to keep himself in condition, and, in the case of the football players, spring practice comes along with the first thaw, lasting as a rule for six or eight weeks.

During the actual playing season in any particular sport a player should "live" that sport. When off the field he is expected to (See TAKE IT FROM ME, Page 10)

Maryland Trips Buff In 3-2 Duel

By LARRY INGRAM

• BEATEN IN three games last week, the Colonial baseball squad engages Virginia in a return tilt Friday at Griffith Stadium and takes on Davidson Saturday at the South Ellipse. Both games begin at 3:00 p.m., and admission is free.

Davidson, perennially a strong nine, has made a slow start in the Southern Conference but is developing into a dangerous threat.

The Virginia Cavaliers handed the Buffmen a 16-6 drubbing last Wednesday at Charlottesville, scoring in every inning but the third and fourth. They displayed abundant hitting power in collecting 16 hits off of Buff twirlers Jack Wheatley, Phil King, and Curly Kuldell, while limiting the Colonials to six safeties.

Meeting the University of Richmond, unbeaten Southern Conference leaders, last Thursday at Griffith Stadium, the Buffmen were trounced 17-2. The Spiders took advantage of 18 hits and numerous Colonial fielding errors to push across their runs. Led by Bernie Good's three base knocks, the Colonials collected nine hits but were unable to score again after tallying twice in the third frame. Don Cubitt and Lefty Smithson worked on the mound for the Buff.

Last Saturday the Colonials dropped a close 3-2 decision to Maryland in a pitching duel between King and the Terps' Joe (See COLONIALS, Page 11)

Colonial Golfers Lose To Hoyas: Beat Loyola

By BERNIE LEVIN

• A HEAVY SCHEDULE of matches this week can make or break the Colonial golfers as far as their season's record is concerned.

Two unknown quantities, Wake Forest and Maryland, and a once played Washington and Lee club are on the docket.

The Georgetown jinx over the Buffmen continued to thrive in last Friday's match, when the Hoyas scored a repeat performance of their last victory. This time they won by the score of 6 to 3.

Larrow of the Hoyas again was low man, scoring a 76. He was hot on his first nine and finished the match with three birdies to his credit, as he defeated Doug Jackson 3 to 2. The overall play of both teams was poor, and as Captain Bill Griffin said, "The weather was chilly and the golf was likewise cool."

Little Jay Wolf suffered his second defeat in match play on a technicality. Although he shot a low 77, he automatically lost the decisive hole of his match when he inadvertently hit the sand on his backswing in getting out of a sand-trap.

The Loyola match earlier in the week was won by the Colonials, 5 to 4. The Baltimore team, supposedly a breather on the Colonial schedule, offered more opposition than was expected. Griffin was forced to miss the match because of afternoon classes. This moved Paul Temple up to the number two position and put Bob Schwab in the number six slot.

Dave Wortman shot exceptionally well, carding the low medal score of 75 on the par 71 Kenwood course, study plays, discuss the technical aspects of the game with other players, and spend time away from studies when traveling with the team for contests away from the home field.

With so many demands being made on the athlete's time it seems only fair that some compensation be awarded for his service. Certainly if these young men were to seek other means of employment, spending an equal amount of time at their work, they could make far more money than whatever the college pays them.

The logical conclusion to the problem seems to be that colleges should legalize the payment of athletes, but that sum should be standardized in the conferences or according to geographical regions.

If it is ethical to recognize scholastic ability in a student there is no logical reason not to recognize the ability of an athlete.

Tolan Wins Women's National Rifle Title; Team Places Fifth

• THE NATIONAL Rifle Association announced last week that Alma Jean Tolan, manager of the University women's rifle team, has won the National Women's Individual Match.

Miss Tolan captured the women's title by outgunning members of teams from more than 20 colleges and universities, plus many unaffiliated individuals.

Further honors in the Individual Match were won by Patricia Lawlor, who finished fourth in the national competition.

Miss Tolan's score earned her the gold-filled award and a certificate of victory from the National Rifle Association. Miss Lawlor will receive a bronze award for fourth place.

As a team the University lassies finished fifth in the National State. No official scores had been released as the Hatchet went to press for either the individual or the team matches.

The National Intercollegiate Match was the last event of the season for the team which wound up its schedule with a record of eight victories and one defeat, outshooting the University of Kansas, Colorado State College, and the University of Michigan, and winning by default over Carnegie Tech, Oklahoma A&M, the University of Nevada, Ohio University, and Drexel Institute.

The only loss inflicted upon the Colonial sharpshooters was at the hands of Beaver College.

Members of the team who fired in the National Intercollegiate Team Match were Patricia Greene, Dorothy Stammer, Lillian Kram, Alma Jean Tolan, and Patricia Lawlor. Mrs. H. Trendley Dean of the Women's Physical Education Department coached the squad.

Maryland Wins District Extramural Meet

Green Cops Only Win For Buff

MARYLAND'S INTRAMURAL champions convincingly trounced all opposition by taking four out of five events in the District Extramural Tourney which featured intramural champs from American University, Georgetown, George Washington, and Maryland. The competition in volleyball, badminton and table tennis was held last Saturday in the University gymnasium.

The meet was opened with the volleyball contests which saw the Colonials defeat Georgetown in the first round, 15-5, 15-7, and Maryland beating American University, 15-9, 15-7. In the playoffs Maryland baited out an easy victory, conquering the University team 15-4, 15-6.

In the table tennis finals, Hal Green, Colonial racket star, who incidentally is rated sixth in the east, defeated Jose Munoz of Maryland, and then went on to top Bernie Boyer of Georgetown for the only Colonial playoff win of the tournament.

The table tennis doubles matches were taken by American U's team when they defeated Maryland, 21-18, 21-16. In the first round, Barry Kreisberg and Tommy Hurst, representing the University dropped their match to Maryland, 21-19, 21-19, while American U. topped Georgetown, 21-16, 17-21, 21-17.

Highlighting the entire tournament were the badminton matches which proved to be the most interesting seen in a long time. In the opening round, Maryland defeated Georgetown in a singles match, while Joe Giovacchini of the University beat Fred Meyers of American University, 15-3, 15-5. In the playoffs, the highly touted Giovacchini was routed by Al Garcia of Maryland, 15-3, 15-2.

Capt. Oliver Shaw and Barry Kreisberg comprised the Colonial doubles team which conquered American U., 15-5, 15-1. Maryland's team beat Georgetown, 15-11, 11-15, 15-7. The final match was taken by Maryland when they nipped the Colonials, 17-15, 16-18, 15-11, for the badminton doubles crown. This match was highlighted by the fact that although Barry Kreisberg, Colonial basketball star, suffered a sprained ankle in the final set, he and Capt. Shaw continued to play a praiseworthy game.

Colonials

(Continued from Page 9) Hughes, King turned in a good performance, holding the Old Liners to five hits and fanning five batters, but the eight walks he issued and his teammates' misuses were his downfall. Hughes hurled a six-hit game and struck out twelve men.

The Colonials scored in the second frame on a single and a stolen base by Bunny Citrenbaum and Good's single. They tallied again in the fourth on Don Druckenmiller's walk, Jack Fitzgerald's safety, and Al Chernitzky's long fly.

Maryland pushed across two runs in the fourth inning and one in the tenth. The Colonials had two men on base in the last half of the tenth but failed to score.

Netmen Conquer Eagles, 5-4

THE UNIVERSITY tennis team will go into action Friday on the Kenwood Country Club courts in a return match against the American University Eagles, who threw a scare into the Colonial netmen last Friday before bowing, 5-4.

The win over American University was balanced by a 6-3 loss earlier in the week to the Maryland University Terrapins.

The Terps provided the Colonials with a surprise by completely re-vamping their lineup before the match, and the strategy paid off well enough to give them five out of the six singles matches. The lone singles winner for the Colonials was Hight Deloach.

Against American University, the Buffman were forced to wage an uphill battle all the way before registering their second victory of the season. The Eagles captured the first three singles matches, but Fry, Kershenbaum, and Deloach fought back to take their matches and even the score.

Again the Eagles took the lead as the Colonial number one doubles team was defeated. With the Colonials trailing 4-3, the second and third doubles teams of Fry-Jacob and Deloach-Ong came through with victories to give the Colonials the match.

Track Meeting

This meeting will be held to discuss the Extramural track meet to be held at the Georgetown track, May 4th.

Pharmacy School Nabs Volley Title

THE ALL-University volleyball championship was won by the School of Pharmacy last Friday in the University gymnasium, as they defeated Kappa Alpha 15-11; 14-16; 15-11.

NEW CENTER puts extra liveliness in the Spalding and Wright & Ditson tennis balls. In recent tests, both bounced consistently to the upper limits of USLTA rebound standards — another reason why these Spalding-made tennis balls are first choice of most tournament players. Sharpen up your game with one of the Twins of Championship Tennis.
